Author Has New Take On Universe Called Mental Dimensional Theory

Virginia Beach -- Hampton Roads author MJ Mopera has a new take on the universe that he stumbled across during his research that he is calling Mental Dimensional Theory. Much like String Theory and others, Mental Dimensional Theory is a way of explaining certain dynamics of the universe that otherwise may not be explainable. Mental Dimensional Theory is ongoing and in its early infancy at the moment but its potential impact down the road could be enormous with applications in countless fields, but especially so where communication is concerned.

Mental Dimensional Theory may also take it a step beyond the everyday normal. According to Mopera "Mental Dimensional Theory can, in essence, lay down a more solid foundation as far as speculative fields such as precognition are concerned... What is known is that Mental Dimensional Theory may have already worked its way into existing or very near future applications that may at this point be classified."

For now, Mopera has written a novel, BUZZism: Beyond, and a series of related screenplays that take Mental Dimensional Theory into account.
